

Absolute Networks - Recycling IT for Wildlife

BBOWT have teamed up with Absolute Networks, as part of their Recycling IT for Wildlife scheme. This scheme offers an efficient, ethical and free service to dispose of your unwanted IT equipment, for the benefit of your local wildlife. All profits are donated to your local Wildlife Trust, with the amount donated depending on the condition and specification of the equipment collected and its possible re-sale value.

Absolute Networks are supporting The Wildlife Trusts across the UK through the Recycling IT for Wildlife Scheme, and have raised close to £15,000 for the Trusts in the first six months.

Absolute Networks offers a professional service and guarantee the following:

- To collect your unwanted office IT equipment, completely free of charge, using a team of uniformed and trained staff with company transport to clear all designated equipment from your premises with minimal involvement of and disruption to your staff. All clearances are covered by appropriate legislative paperwork.
- All equipment is assessed on arrival at Absolute Network's premises. It is then sorted into complete and partial equipment which has value in the second-user market.
- All equipment is debadged - saleable equipment is tested, cleaned and prepared for sale. Items for sale include whole or part IT items thus minimising the overall quantity of material sent for recycling.
- Absolute Networks take data security very seriously and provide a full data destruction service on any computers, servers or storage devices recycled.
- Non-saleable equipment is broken down according to relevant economic criteria and prepared for shipment to a UK waste recycler.
- The scheme uses a fully licensed Authorised Treatment Facility that operates under the WEEE Directive and a duty of care and Hazardous waste consignment note is issued on site at the point of collection.
- All waste equipment is disposed of ethically, within the UK, and Absolute Networks guarantee that no toxic or hazardous materials ends up in landfill in the UK, or anywhere else in the world.
