About us

We believe that everyone can make a positive difference to their local environment. Join us and be part of nature's recovery!

In 1959, the Berkshire, Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire Naturalists' Trust (BBONT) was born. In 2001 we changed our name to the Berkshire, Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire Wildlife Trust (BBOWT), bringing us in to line with the Wildlife Trust family.

BBOWT is now the largest voluntary organisation in the region concerned with all aspects of nature conservation.

We are a membership organisation governed by a Board of Trustees elected by the members. Our membership totals 52,000 people.

BBOWT is a registered charity and company limited by guarantee.

Our charitable objectives

To safeguard and enhance biodiversity, and in particular:

- To undertake and promote the conservation of wildlife species and their habitats including the restoration and creation of such habitats.
- To promote public understanding of, and support for, the natural world.
- To campaign in support of sustainable principles and practices for the protection of the natural environment.

Our Vision

An environment rich in wildlife, valued by all.

Our Mission

To create a Living Landscape across our towns, cities and countryside and inspire our communities to act for nature.

Our Aim

To lead the way for nature's recovery and connect people with nature, so that:

- Our soil and water resources are managed to create functioning ecosystems and wildlife-rich places.
- Local communities, decision-makers, landowners and businesses work with and for nature.
- People recognise their dependence upon nature and its value to their mental and physical wellbeing.

The Wildlife Trusts' movement

The Berks, Bucks & Oxon Wildlife Trust is one of 46 Wildlife Trusts across the UK. Together the Wildlife Trusts form the largest UK voluntary organisation dedicated to protecting wildlife and wild places on land and at sea.

More, bigger, better and joined up

Our three counties have suffered decades of wildlife habitat destruction. Meadows, hedgerows and woods have disappeared under houses and roads. Unsustainable farming has depleted soils and in some places wiped out the diversity of wildlife.

We are leading the way to nature's recovery in Berks, Bucks and Oxon by restoring and creating more places for wildlife and people.

Putting financial and cultural values on nature helps us make the case for a countryside richer in wildlife. Our work demonstrates the benefits to water quality and flood regulation from our nature reserves.

We are cultivating new partnerships through our Investors in Wildlife scheme to maximise our impacts and build our capacity to restore more land for wildlife.

We manage 87 nature reserves covering 2,600 ha of land

25,000 memberships support our work

We manage 5 Living Landscapes to bring about landscape-scale habitat restoration

BBOWT's Strategic Plan 2016-2021

BBOWT's ambitious Strategic Plan 2016-2021: Be part of Nature's Recovery aims to:

- Restore land so it is rich in wildlife
- Connect with people and communities
- Value nature by explaining its benefits
- Partner with others to maximise our impact
- Build our capacity to deliver

BBOWT's Nature Reserves

The Berks, Bucks and Oxon Wildlife Trust owns and manages more than 80 nature reserves across the three counties. More than 2,600 hectares of land are managed specifically to protect wildlife.

Wild places have been increasingly lost or damaged as a result of human activities. Many areas that BBOWT owns or manages would have been destroyed or damaged by intensive farming, forestry or development if the Trust had not stepped in.

BBOWT's nature reserves are central to our work to secure a better future for wildlife:

- Providing protection for rare and threatened animal and plant species.
- Acting as reservoirs so that wildlife can return to the wider countryside when opportunities arise.
- Demonstrating 'best practice' for habitat and species management to encourage local authorities, parish councils and other landowners to manage their land for wildlife.
- In some cases, providing a base for rigorous science-based research and environmental education for schools, colleges and universities.
- Offering the opportunity for people to experience and appreciate the rich variety of habitats that were once widespread.
- Inspiring and giving pleasure to BBOWT members and the public, and having a positive impact on wellbeing.
- Providing public benefits such as carbon storage, floodwater storage and water quality regulation.

BBOWT's Living Landscapes

Successive State of Nature reports compiled by 25 conservation bodies, the most recent published in 2016, show that we are continuing to lose wildlife and the places where wildlife thrive at an alarming rate. A landscape-scale approach to wildlife conservation, by reconnecting habitats to create functioning landscapes, is the only way to halt and reverse biodiversity losses.

'Living Landscapes' schemes involve landowners, farmers, councils, businesses, individuals and communities working with the Berks, Bucks & Oxon Wildlife Trust to make more space for nature, and enable more people to enjoy them.

Bernwood Forest and Ray Valley

This includes a rich mosaic of ancient woodland habitats now managed for many wildlife species, and traditional floodplain meadows, a stronghold for wading birds in the upper River Ray on the Bucks/Oxon border.

Upper Thames

Centred on Chimney Meadows nature reserve in west Oxfordshire, this is one of the most important areas in the UK for wading birds and wildflower meadows.

West Berkshire

The last stronghold in our region of internationally-threatened lowland heaths. This scheme includes Greenham and Crookham Commons.

Urban Living Landscapes

BBOWT works in partnership with local authorities to inspire people to explore and discover the wild green spaces in Banbury and Oxford. These urban Living Landscapes reconnect wildlife habitats where people can enjoy them every day.

Wild Banbury

We're working at two main sites, Hanwell Brook Wetland and Spiceball Park, owned by Banbury Town Council.

Wild Oxford

We're working in partnership with Oxford City Council on four of their nature reserves: Chilswell Valley, Lye Valley, Raleigh Park and Rivermead Nature Park.

BBOWT's Brand Values

passionate

From leading walks and giving talks, to training and the media, PASSION for local wildlife and how we are making a difference, informs everything we do.

authoritative

Through regular meetings with MPs to discuss wildlife issues and our contributions to planning enquiries, we are the AUTHORITATIVE voice for local wildlife.

influential

Through publicity and lobbying behind the scenes, and galvanising our members' support, we INFLUENCE decision-makers to bring about positive change for wildlife.

practical

The conservation tasks we undertake ensure that the habitats in our care are wildlife-rich. We demonstrate best practice to encourage others to manage their land for wildlife too.

inspiring

Whether it is our nature reserves and wildlife, publications, events or education programmes, we INSPIRE others to care as much about wildlife as we do.

BBOWT's Behavioural Values

Integrity - doing the right thing

You are confident that your actions are right for our customers (members, funders etc), your colleagues and the Trust as a whole. Your overriding consideration is BBOWT's purpose and reputation.

Respecting others - listening well and being open and honest

You take care to understand and listen to all our customers (internal and external) and their needs. You speak to colleagues as one equal to another without judging, being patronising or using jargon. You understand the importance of dialogue and practise it. You also understand their knowledge, talent and experience.

Team work - integrated approach

You find time to invest in, listen to, motivate and learn from one another by openly sharing information and knowledge with all colleagues and always realise that BBOWT is more important than the individual or team.

Personal responsibility - flexibility

You are flexible in the way you work and are adaptable to change. You provide outstanding customer service and take responsibility to put things right whenever there is a problem. If a colleague needs your assistance you are there to help. You show commitment, passion and initiative.

Learning culture - continuously improving

You promote a learning culture. You ensure sufficient time and resource to create a strong learning culture. You constantly challenge yourself and your team to build on what you have achieved.

BACKGROUND

The Berkshire, Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire Wildlife Trust (also known as BBOWT) was formed in 1959 and has a vision of an environment rich in wildlife for everyone, valued by all. We aim to lead the way to nature's recovery through innovative land management, and connect people with nature to improve their wellbeing. We work in partnership and through collaborative projects with local communities, businesses, land owners and local authorities. In the three counties BBOWT owns or manages 90 nature reserves covering 2,500 hectares. We have more than 50,000 members, employ over 100 professional staff, and have active support from more than 1,350 volunteers. Each year around 12,000 schoolchildren visit our education centres. BBOWT has an annual turnover of over £6 million and receives income from membership subscriptions, grants and donations. BBOWT is one of 46 Wildlife Trusts working across the UK, each is a corporate member of the Royal Society of Wildlife Trusts.

Our mission – To create a Living Landscape across our towns, cities and countryside and inspire our communities to act for nature.

Our aim – To lead the way for nature's recovery and connect people with nature, so that:

- Our soil and water resources are managed to create functioning ecosystems and wildlife-rich places.
- Local communities, decision-makers, landowners and business work with and for nature.
- People recognise their dependence upon nature and its value to their mental and physical wellbeing.

JOB PURPOSE

- To implement all aspects of management of the Trust's Community focussed Nature Reserves in Oxfordshire and the Sutton Courtenay Environmental Education Centre (SCEEC) Nature Reserve in conjunction with the Community Wildlife Manager
- To assist in the delivery, promotion and development of Wild Oxford Project
- Recruit, train and support local volunteers to deliver habitat management work on wildlife sites within the Oxford city and Community Nature Reserves
- Providing information, advice and support to individuals, local groups and other target audiences in the county (both BBOWT and non-BBOWT)

REPORTING LINE

The Community Wildlife Officer reports to the Community Wildlife Manager (Oxon)

STAFF MANAGEMENT

This post has no line reports, but is responsible for the supervision of a Community Wildlife Trainee

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Share responsibility for the on-site management of the community focussed nature reserves; to carry out all aspects of estate management, maintain and improve visitor facilities, undertake biological surveys, monitoring of work and data entry
- Assist with the supervision of reserve management contracts when on community focussed reserves
- To assist in organising, overseeing and supporting the Wild Oxford volunteer groups to undertake practical management on Oxford City Council owned land (using BBOWT tools and equipment) and maintain a regular programme of weekday and weekend volunteering opportunities in line with agreed Wild Oxford project priorities
- Recruit, develop, organise, supervise and support teams of volunteers on community focussed nature reserve groups and other community volunteers. Take responsibility for the health and safety of these teams and ensure safe working practices are adhered to at all times
- To organise, supervise and mentor a volunteer Community Wildlife Trainee and ensuring that the trainee contributes productively to the team's work while receiving appropriate support and training
- Lead the management of the nature reserve and wildlife garden at SCEEC with volunteer support, working closely with the Environmental Education Manager
- To work with the Community Wildlife manager to support the Wild Oxford Project
- As appropriate, to work with and support the Wild Banbury Project Officer
- To support the reserves Volunteer Wardens and other key volunteers
- Ensuring that there is a programme of appropriate and inspiring events and activities on various nature reserves within Oxfordshire, as agreed with line manager
- Organise and deliver the annual BBOWT on your doorstep for Oxfordshire volunteers.
- Providing training, support and inspiration to staff and volunteers involved in running walks, talks and events on, and in support of, BBOWT nature reserves
- Providing training, support and advice to other local groups and individuals to enable them to take action for wildlife, in accordance with Trust priorities and agreed work plan
- Support the Community Wildlife manager and Events Officer in the delivery and development of the Oxford Festival of Nature and BBC Countryfile Live events
- To assist with the rolling programme of tree safety surveys and Access Audits on Oxfordshire reserves. Organise necessary tree safety work by Trust staff or contractors
- To participate in the Best Practice Review process of the operation of volunteer groups
- Providing regular reports as required, and reporting work undertaken on community focussed reserves on the Countryside Management System (CMS) software package
- To ensure that all health and safety obligations are met in all aspects of the role in particular, to ensure implementation of Child Welfare and Safety Code of Practice
- To engender a culture of membership recruitment within the team
- Any other duties as delegated by the line manager, Head of Department or Chief Executive

Job Applicant Privacy Notice

Data controller: Berkshire, Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire Wildlife Trust (BBOWT)

As part of any recruitment process, the organisation collects and processes personal data relating to job applicants. The organisation is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses that data and to meeting its data protection obligations.

What information does the organisation collect?

The organisation collects a range of information about you. This includes:

- your name, address and contact details, including email address and telephone number;
- details of your qualifications, skills, experience and employment history;
- information about your current level of remuneration, including benefit entitlements;
- whether or not you have a disability for which the organisation needs to make reasonable adjustments during the recruitment process;
- information about your entitlement to work in the UK; and
- equal opportunities monitoring information, including information about your ethnic origin, sexual orientation, health, and religion or belief.

The organisation collects this information in a variety of ways. For example, data might be contained in application forms, CVs or resumes, obtained from your passport or other identity documents, or collected through interviews or other forms of assessment.

The organisation will also collect personal data about you from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers, information from employment background check providers and information from criminal records checks.

Data will be stored in a range of different places, including on your application record, in HR management systems and on other IT systems (including email).

Why does the organisation process personal data?

The organisation needs to process data to take steps at your request prior to entering into a contract with you. It also needs to process your data to enter into a contract with you.

In some cases, the organisation needs to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, it is required to check applicants' eligibility to work in the UK before offering employment.

The organisation has a legitimate interest in processing personal data during the recruitment process and for keeping records of the process. Processing data from job applicants allows the organisation to manage the recruitment process, assess and confirm a candidate's suitability for employment and decide to whom to offer a job. The organisation may also need to process data from job applicants to respond to and defend against legal claims.

Where the organisation relies on legitimate interests as a reason for processing data, it has considered whether or not those interests are overridden by the rights and freedoms of employees or workers and has concluded that they are not.

The organisation processes health information if it needs to make reasonable adjustments to the recruitment process for candidates who have a disability. This is to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

Where the organisation processes other special categories of data, such as information about ethnic origin, sexual orientation, health, religion or belief, age, gender or marital status, this is done for the purposes of equal opportunities monitoring purposes whereby information collected is anonymised so that the person providing the information cannot be identified.

For some roles, the organisation is obliged to seek information about criminal convictions and offences. Where the organisation seeks this information, it does so because it is necessary for it to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

The organisation will not use your data for any purpose other than the recruitment exercise for which you have applied.

Who has access to data?

Your information will be shared internally for the purposes of the recruitment exercise. This includes members of the HR and recruitment team, interviewers involved in the recruitment process, managers in the business area with a vacancy and IT staff if access to the data is necessary for the performance of their roles.

The organisation will not share your data with third parties, unless your application for employment is successful and it makes you an offer of employment. The organisation will then share your data with former employers to obtain references for you, employment background check providers to obtain necessary background checks and the Disclosure and Barring Service to obtain necessary criminal records checks, if relevant to the role.

The organisation will not transfer your data outside the European Economic Area.

How does the organisation protect data?

The organisation takes the security of your data seriously. It has internal policies and controls in place to ensure that your data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused or disclosed, and is not accessed except by our employees in the proper performance of their duties. Any paper copies are held securely in locked cabinets and electronic copies are saved in a protected area with, both accessible only to employees with a need to know as part of their role.

For how long does the organisation keep data?

If your application for employment is unsuccessful, the organisation will hold your data on file for six months after the end of the relevant recruitment process. At the end of that period your data is deleted or destroyed.

If your application for employment is successful, personal data gathered during the recruitment process will be transferred to your personnel file and retained during your employment. The periods for which your data will be held will be provided to you in a new privacy notice.

Your rights

As a data subject, you have a number of rights. You can:

- access and obtain a copy of your data on request;
- require the organisation to change incorrect or incomplete data;
- require the organisation to delete or stop processing your data, for example where the data is no longer necessary for the purposes of processing;
- object to the processing of your data where the organisation is relying on its legitimate interests as the legal ground for processing; and
- ask the organisation to stop processing data for a period if data is inaccurate or there is a dispute about whether or not your interests override the organisation's legitimate grounds for processing data.

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, please email info@bbowt.org.uk

If you believe that the organisation has not complied with your data protection rights, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

What if you do not provide personal data?

You are under no statutory or contractual obligation to provide data to the organisation during the recruitment process. However, if you do not provide the information, the organisation may not be able to process your application properly or at all.

You are under no obligation to provide information for equal opportunities monitoring purposes and there are no consequences for your application if you choose not to provide such information.

Automated decision-making

Recruitment processes are not based solely on automated decision-making.
