

Volunteer Role Outline

Role title
Foxholes Conservation Volunteer Work Party
Based at location
Foxholes Nature Reserve, Oxfordshire OX7 6QD
Purpose of the role
The Foxholes volunteer work party carries out a variety of practical tasks to maintain and enhance the Foxholes nature reserve.
Type of work in which you will be involved
Maintaining and installing various site infrastructure such as horse barriers and fences, summer path cutting, other access work.
Skills, Experience &/or qualifications needed
No experience necessary as full training will be given; we just need keen and enthusiastic people. Own transport needed to get to the site, car park is limited so car shares will be encouraged therefore living locally is a plus. We're generally out whatever the weather, and there are no facilities on the reserve.
Times/days we would like you to be available
The group meets on Fridays and are at least seasonal, with ad hoc work parties added where a task cannot be finished in one session. Dates are coordinated via the Team Leader.
